

Contents

Cover

Susan Coe visualises the idea of 'university'.

- 677 Summaries/French
- 679 Death of a community
David Hamilton-Eddy, a psychologist working with architectural students, analyses the disintegration of commercial values in Western society.
- 681 The Alexander Pike Autonomous House
Theoretical studies have been proceeding on this experimental house at the University of Cambridge Department of Architecture, in the Technical Research Division. The house, as conceived by the Director Alex Pike, has been accepted by the Science Research Council who will be funding the studies on a full-size version soon to be built in Cambridge.
- 690 Peter Harper's Directory of 'Alternative technology'
Peter Harper attempts to do two things at once: to mark out a way for those who wish to know more about the subject; and to provide a general impression for idle voyeurs. He points out that he cannot paint a truly international picture, living as he does in London in a de-institutionalised milieu which precludes the necessary travel, subscriptions and translation.
- 699 User design
Yona Friedman has been able to put some of his theories into practice. His client required a large factory building to be converted for their use as offices. YF worked out the technical side of the design in such a way as to let the employees design the rest of the spatial arrangement for themselves, using, for guidance, YF's handbook for teaching architecture in primary schools.
- 702 Briefing: the university campus
This is the last of the AD Briefing articles and perhaps the most detailed. Peter Jockusch works in Western Germany, but points out that though most of his examples come from that country, they are fairly representative of the kinds of problems involved and recent typical solutions.
- 719 Collective design: collective quality
This is the fifth in the series of articles by Alison and Peter Smithson. Previous ones have appeared in AD 10/73, 5/74, 6/74 and 7/74.
- 723 Street smarts
Lars Lerup, Roberto Brambilla and Gianni Longo demonstrate the potential of 'the street' as a necessary part of a rich urban life.
- 726 Letters
- 727 Books
- 730 Energy pandemonium
Costis Stambolis reviews three recent reports on Energy by different establishment institutions.
- 732 Land
An open letter to AD readers from Robin Thompson about the Labour Party's White Paper on 'Land'.
- 734 Round-up
Tsukuba Academic City. La Coruña gallery houses. My My. Fields within fields. Reflections in Tokyo.
- 737 Arts
Seiichi Niikuni and concrete poetry. Automobile art. Art into landscape. Live in Dubuffet. Five young architects. British Art/Old boy network.
- 742 Summaries/German