

Architectural Design Vol XLV, 8/1975

Contents

- Cover
Nancy Fowler illustrates woman's burden using AD's Sue Barrow as her model.
- 457 Books
- 458 Extracts from letters
- 460 Protest
Beeban Morris hits out against male domination.
- 461 The taming of the bull
Irene-Coates writes about ancient Cretan society.
- 463 A man's world, a woman's place
Sarah Strong traces the contraction since 1800 AD of women's horizons within the space of the home, and describes how this has been expressed in the design of houses.
- 466 Women theorists: not afraid to say the obvious
Margaret Richardson examines the work of some of the influential theorists.
- 469 The RIBA and women
Nadine Beddington discusses the RIBA evidence to the 1974 White Paper.
- 468 Between the Wars
Enid Caldicott talks to Stephanie Wuensche.
- 471 The official view of the female user
Maureen Taylor deplors the short-sighted view of women revealed in the design policies of official bodies such as the DoE.
- 473 Su: how to live on 24 hours a day
Sue Rogers talks to Barbara Goldstein.
- 475 The student view
Stephanie Wuensche would like to see more 'feminine' qualities injected into the architectural profession and its educational system.
- 476 Women in practice
Santa Raymond describes the practice which she and several professional Mums run.
- 477 Some work by women architects
Sainsbury Centre for the Visual Arts, U.E.A., by Wendy Foster. Clydeside study by Eldred Evans. Torbay Hospital, by Jane Drew. Two hospital departments, by Janet Payne. Shoe Shops, by Nadine Beddington. Factory extension, by Irena Mardi. Old people's housing, by Kate Macintosh. Two houses by M.J. Long. House in the woods, by Ruth Lakowski.
- 493 Women's self help
Helen Sachs writes about women's self-help activities.
- 497 Nina West Homes
Nina West founded a housing association for divorced and single parents. Sarah Strong describes their block of twelve flats and nursery school.
- 499 Planning and women's subordination
Planners in Britain tend to create as many problems as they solve. Irene Bruegel and Adah Kay discuss these.
- 501 Women as landscape designers
Margaret Maxwell loves her work as a landscape designer.
- 502 Kuwait green-belt pleasure gardens
Alison Smithson
- 505 Round up
International Council of Women/Janet Pott. Women in urban renewal/Maggie Bird. Coltheart's genetic findings. Woman's Building, LA.
- 507 Arts
Women artists, by Jasia Reichardt. 'Women in architecture', photos by Jessica Strang. 'The space between' by Jenny Lowe.
- 513 Who's who