

page 90

page 94

page 96

page 108

BUILDING TECHNOLOGY

- 105 INDOOR AIR QUALITY: THE ARCHITECT'S ROLE
You need to know not only what products to specify, but how to handle the human dimension.
- 108 STEEL AND GLASS BRING FORM TO LIGHT
A collaboration of designer, engineer, and fabricator proves that less is still more.
- 112 MAKING A GOOD VISUAL IMPRESSION WITH MASONRY
Specify the results you want, and use samples and mockups as a benchmark.
By Christine Beall
- 125 COMPUTER TECHNOLOGY
A 3-D Package for FastCAD Devotees. A 2-D version of FastCAD is included in the package, but all 2-D and 3-D drawings can be done with this version.
By Steven S. Ross
- 131 NEW PRODUCTS
Making Every Drop Count. The spread of strict water-use legislation has sped the development of plumbing fixtures that make better use of a scarce resource.

PRACTICE

- 23 PRACTICE NEWS
- 28 BEYOND COMPUTERS AS PENCILS
How the computer revolution, now rooted in telecommunications, banking, and merchandising, will begin to transform the practice of architecture as well. By Kristine Fallon
- 33a 1991 CONSTRUCTION OUTLOOK
Despite the current gloom, a new expansion should begin by the middle of next year.
By George A. Christie
- 45 GETTING WHAT YOU WANT FROM SPECIFICATIONS
A guide to choosing the right specification methods for your firm. By Timothy Kirby
- 53 OBSERVATIONS
American Firms in Britain: A Report Card. Charles Knevitt, architecture critic of The Times of London, reviews recent work by American architects in his home town.

4	Letters	148	Classified Advertising
11	Editorial	149	Calendar
13	Design News	152	Advertising Index
137	Manufacturers' Sources	155	Reader Service Card
140	Product Literature

COVER: Aurora Municipal Justice Center, Aurora, Colorado; Skidmore, Owings & Merrill/Washington, D. C., Architect
Photographer: ©Ron Johnson

SUPPLEMENT ON LIGHTING IS INCLUDED WITH THIS ISSUE (with U. S. and Canadian copies only)

CONTENTS

FEATURES / BUILDING TYPES STUDY 686: In the Public Interest—Civic Buildings

page 66

page 72

page 76

page 84

61 INTRODUCTION

62 TO GATHER TOGETHER

Andover Town Hall Restoration, Andover, Massachusetts; Ann Beha Associates, Architects. After years of neglect, a restored 19th-century town hall near Boston is once again the focus of a community's pride.

66 DOUBLE IDENTITY

Bartholomew County Jail, Columbus, Indiana; Hisaka & Associates, Architects. In Columbus, Indiana, even the jail is a model architectural citizen.

72 YANKEE INGENUITY

Division 1 Fire Headquarters, Boston, Massachusetts; Jung/Brannen Associates, Architects. Boston's new downtown fire station fits neatly into a major high-rise office development.

76 HOMAGE TO GILL

Oceanside Civic Center, Oceanside, California; Charles W. Moore/Urban Innovations Group, Architects. An early 20th-century Southern California regionalist provides cues for a coastal city's new civic center.

82 SNUG HARBOR

Burnham Harbor Station, Chicago, Illinois; Chicago Park District, Architects and Engineers. A public harbor station on Chicago's park-lined lakeshore welcomes boaters and landlubbers alike.

84 POLICE HOSPITALITY

Metropolitan Toronto Police Headquarters, Toronto, Ontario; Shore Tilbe Henschel Irwin Peters and Mathers & Haldenby, Joint-Venture Architects. Working together, two Toronto firms broke stereotypes when they designed the Canadian city's new police headquarters.

90 CARIBBEAN RECALL

Caribbean Marketplace, Miami, Florida; Charles Harrison Pawley, Architect. A community marketplace in Miami evokes lingering memories of Haitian folklife.

94 WESTERN FRONT

Julian Main Post Office, Julian, California; Keniston & Mosher, Architects. A San Diego firm reinterprets the Old West character of a historic California town.

96 JUSTICE SERVED

Aurora Municipal Justice Center, Aurora, Colorado; Skidmore, Owings & Merrill/Washington, D. C., Architects. An ambitious justice center near Denver weds civic classicism with innovative precast technology.