

to ^{no 115}
po 2021
s.

right to the city

18 CRISIS AS OPPORTUNITY

– The small step from Lefèbvre’s “Right to the City” to a new digital urban democracy

40 NEW YORK’S HIGH
LINE AND ATLANTA’S
BELTLINE

– The boon and bane of private funding for public spaces

66 URBAN HEALTH MATTERS

– Planners as agents of public health: achieving the right to the healthy city by design

Contents

α

THE BIG PICTURE

Page 8

OPINION

Page 10

TALENT & MASTERMIND

Page 12

METROPOLIS EXPLAINED

Page 14

THE BOON AND BANE OF PRIVATE FUNDING FOR PUBLIC SPACES

Page 40

γ

CURATED PRODUCTS

Page 104

REFERENCE

Page 108

EDITOR'S PICK

Page 110

β

CRISIS AS OPPORTUNITY

Henri Lefebvre's impact
on today's city development

Page 19

PROTOTYPES FOR A REAL UTOPIA

City of Refugees: four utopian cities as a platform for a new, global multi-ethnic society

Page 24

GENDER, RACE AND THE RIGHT TO THE CITY

In conversation with Kelley Lemon and Andrew Sargeant of BlackLAN

Page 32

WOMEN BUILDING CITIES

The role of female urban planners and designers
in creating cities

Page 38

THE BOON AND BANE OF PRIVATE FUNDING FOR PUBLIC SPACES

How to upgrade neighborhoods:
The High Line in NYC and the Atlanta BeltLine

Page 40

THEIR RIGHT TO THE CITY, AND OURS

Who builds the city and who owns it?
Reflections on the "real estate state"

Page 46

GREEN GRANDEUR

The ambivalent endeavour of the transformation of the Parisian Champs-Élysées

Page 48

INTERSTITIAL JUSTICE

Traffic space is public space: Calling for a paradigm shift with respect to the spaces dedicated to mobility

Page 54

FACTS ABOUT THE RTTC

Page 60

COPING WITH COMPOUNDED CRISES

Post-disaster and pandemic management in New Orleans
In conversation with Laura Paul of lowernine.org

Page 62

URBAN HEALTH MATTERS

The Right to the healthy City

Page 66

KIDS AND THE CITY

In search of the child-friendly city: How to overcome the dichotomy between cities and children?

Page 74

LONELY MAN IN THE CITY

The never-ending search for balance between authorities and the citizenry

Page 78

BORDERS WIDE SHUT

No trespassing: How Berlin Wall artist
Thierry Noir once reclaimed the city

Page 82

CREATING POROUS STRUCTURES

Can an embassy be a place of encounter and openness?

Page 84

INFORMAL SETTLEMENTS AND THE RTTC

In conversation with urban planner and architect
Fabienne Hoelzel who plans in the Global South

Page 90

MAKING SPACE WITH PUBLIC ART

The art of forming venues of encounter and debate with public art

Page 96

CONTRIBUTORS

Page 102

δ

ESCAPE PLAN

Page 112

EDGE CITY

Page 114

IMPRINT

Page 113

IN CONVERSATION WITH FABIENNE HOELZEL

Page 90